

Teen Dating Violence Online Resources for Teens, Parents, and Teachers

www.nextstepdvproject.org - Visit NextStep DV Project's website to learn more about our services, donate, learn about volunteering, and connect with us. We serve all people in Washington and Hancock Counties.

www.mcedv.org - The Maine Coalition to End Domestic Violence is the statewide coalition that all domestic violence resource centers fall under. Visit their website to learn about statewide resources, trainings, statistics and other information.

www.breakthecycle.org - Break the Cycle is an organization specifically for ages 12-24 to promote healthy relationships and gives resources for teens, parents, and educators. There are opportunities for trainings and teen dating violence awareness campaigns.

www.loveisrespect.org - Love is Respect is another organization specific for ages 12-24 that promotes healthy relationships, has resources about teen dating violence for teens, parents, and educators. It even has quizzes that can tell you whether your relationship is healthy, unhealthy, or abusive.

www.joinonelove.org - The One Love Foundation is another resource for ages 12-24 that promotes healthy relationships, provides resources and trainings about teen dating violence.

www.futureswithoutviolence.org - Futures Without Violence is a great resource for organizations and educators. There are opportunities for trainings and teen dating violence awareness campaigns.